14 Day Books-Mini-Overviews

Fiction

The Final Storm by Fern Michaels (Large Print). We meet an “acclaimed” wildlife photographer who finally has overcome a terrible past. But now, however, she must face a test of courage and strength. An “exciting and richly moving” story.

Daughter of Egypt by Marie Benedict. This historical novel is about two young women, centuries apart, attempting to uncover a secret tomb of a forgotten woman Pharaoh. And one of them must also fight, against all odds, to keep Egyptian artifacts where they belong. It is a “sweeping” tale.

My Beloved by Jan Karon. A story about an Episcopal priest, Father Tim, and a private love letter to his wife. This letter is missing and ends up circulating through this small town of Mitford. This leads to “humorous and poignant revelations” about love and faith.

Mystery

Hope Rises by David Baldacci (Large Print). The second in the Walter Nash series. Here Nash finds himself questioning those he has encountered in the past. Can he now trust the woman he considered an arch enemy? Will seeking the truth save him?

Bloodlust by Sandra Brown. This is the story of a detective who wants justice for his murdered wife and seeks the assistance of a psychotherapist. As these two seek the truth, their growing attraction for each other may compromise them both and invite danger.

Judge Stone by James Patterson. This mystery/legal thriller is co-authored by Viola Davis, an Academy Award winning actress. Judge Stone, a respected Alabama judge, is faced with a controversial case, one of the most controversial of her career. The story has “first class” courtroom drama, and strong characters all “wrapped up” in a moral problem. It is an “up-all-night” thriller.

Revenge Prey by John Sanford (Large Print). Another mystery featuring U.S. Marshal Lucas Davenport. His job is to find a “ruthless” Russian hit team. But he also must protect and save a Russian man and his family who are defectors. Can he succeed in time?
